12. (1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Power Official Gazette, make ruler to carry out the purposes of this Act.

make rules.

(2) Every rule made under this section shall be laid as soon as may be after it is made before each House of Parliament while it is in session for a total period of thirty days which may be comprised in one session or in two successive sessions, and if before the expiry of the session in which it is so laid or the session immediately fol-25 lowing, both Houses agree in making any modification in the rule or both Houses agree that the rule should not be made, the rule shall thereafter have effect only in such modified form or be of no effect, as the case may be; so, however, that any such modification or annulment shall be without prejudice to the validity of o thing previously done under that rule.

The objects of this Bill are plain enough. It is to prohibit slaughter of cows and its progeny. It is well known that throughout the length and breadth of our country there is a demand for it and Parliament cannot overlook this fact fraught with dangerous consequences. Some of the States have already taken this step and enacted laws under different denominations, but Parliament is competent to enact such a law applicable to the whole of India.

NEW DELHI; The 8th March, 1967. PRAKASH VIR SHASTRI.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

The rule making power under this Bill is of a normal character.

The scope of clause 12 is limited to routine matters as are required for the implementation of the law.

BILL No. 7 of 1967

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1967.

2. In article 15 of the Constitution, in clauses (1) and (2), after Amendthe word "caste", the word "language" shall be inserted.

article 15.

3. In article 16 of the Constitution, in clause (2), after the word Amend-"caste", the word "language" shall be inserted.

ment of article 16.

In a multilingual country that India is, there should be no discrimination against any citizen on grounds of language and there should be equal opportunity for every one in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State. Though we have many assurances from the Prime Ministers and the Home Ministers to this effect, it is better in a democracy to have proper statutory safeguards than to depend on the promises and pronouncements of individuals, however eminent they may be.

Hence this Bill.

BILL No. 16 of 1967

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

- 1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act. Short title. 1967.
- 5 2. For article 120 of the Constitution, the following shall be Amend-substituted, namely:—

 "120 Notwithstandian anathing in Part VIVI late a biast too."
 - "120. Notwithstanding anything in Part XVII, but subject 120, to the provisions of article 348, business in Parliament shall be transacted in any of the languages specified in the Eighth Schedule to the Constitution, or in English."

According to article 120 of the Constitution, business in Parliament can be transacted only in Hindi or in English, provided that the Presiding Officer may permit any member who cannot express himself in Hindi or in English to address the House in his mother tongue. It is a simple truth that a person can express himself naturally, fully and most adequately in his mother tongue only and a Member of Parliament whose mother tongue is neither Hindi nor English and who has unfortunately acquired some knowledge of English or Hindi is handicapped by the present provision of the Constitution whereby he cannot speak in his own language in the House. It is but proper that all the languages specified in the Eighth Schedule and which are well-developed and have attained or are destined to attain the stature of official languages in the States have a just claim to be recognised for use in Parliament.

Hence this Bill.

BILL No. 13 of 1967

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:-

title and commencement.

- (2) It shall come into force at once.
- 2. After article 125 of the Constitution, the following article shall Insertion be inserted, namely:- of new article 125A.

"125A. The Judges of the Supreme Court, on ceasing to hold Prohibioffice as Judges, shall be ineligible for further employment either under the Government of India or under the Government

tion as to the holding of offices by judges of Supreme Court on ceasing to be such Judges.

of a State, except in accordance with the provisions of article 128."

Insertion of new article 221A.

3. After article 221 of the Constitution, the following article shall be inserted, namely:—

Prohibition as to the holding of offices by Judges of High Courts on ceasing to be such Judges.

"221A. The Judges of the High Courts, on ceasing to hold 5 office as Judges, shall be eligible for appointment as Judges of the Supreme Court or for appointment in accordance with the provisions of articles 127 and 128, but not for any other employment under the Government of India or under the Government of a State."

In order to preserve the independence and impartiality of the Union and State Public Service Commissions and the Comptroller and Auditor General of India our Constitution has prohibited further employment of the holders of these offices under the Union Government or the State Governments

This is a salutary principle and needs to be applied to the Judges of the Supreme Court and the High Courts also. The independence of our judiciary is the pre-condition of the effective functioning of our democratic institutions. In recent years this independence of the Judges has been undermined by the ruling party which offered them further employment in some capacity or the other. The first Law Commission had also frowned upon further employment of the Judges by the Government. If the judiciary is not to be completely subordinated to the executive, it is necessary to impose a total ban on further employment of Judges of the Supreme Court and High Courts.

Hence this Bill.

BILL No. 15 of 1967

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1967.

Amendment of article 37.

2. In article 37 of the Constitution, after the words "this Part", 5 the words "except those contained in articles 45 and 47" shall be inserted.

3. In article 45 of the Constitution, for the words "The State Amendshall endeavour to provide, within a period of ten years from the ment of commencement of this Constitution," the words "It shall be the duty of the State to provide, with effect from 26th January, 1968," shall 5 be substituted.

4. For article 47 of the Constitution, the following article shall Substibe substituted, namely:-

tution of new

article

47.

"47. It shall be the duty of the State to ensure to every article citizen a minimum standard of nutrition and, in particular, to for prevent untimely deaths resulting from mal-nutrition, nourishment or starvation."

The late Gopal Krishna Gokhale sponsored a resolution and a Bill on free and compulsory primary education by stages as far back as the first decade of this century. Since then provision of free schooling for children has been a principal objective of the freedom movement in India. This cherished ideal of our independence movement found expression in article 45 of the Constitution relating to Directive Principles of State Policy. The Constitution-makers had then expressed the hope that the ideal of free and compulsory schooling for children will be realized within 10 years after the commencement of the Constitution. It is now more than 16 years after the Constitution came into force and yet, in large parts of the country, free and compulsory primary education remains an unrealized dream. The State Governments are displaying utter indifference and callousness in implementing a principle basic to all civilized communities. In India's biggest city, Calcutta, nearly 50 per cent of the children below the age of 14 are going without any schooling whatsoever and the State and the Municipal Corporation have so far done nothing in the matter. In other areas, too, the position is far from being satisfactory.

Unless the citizens of this country are given legal and constitutional remedy and unless the courts are empowered to enforce free and compulsory education and performance by the State of its duty to feed the people, these ideals will never be realised. Therefore, the Bill seeks to fix this responsibility squarely on the State and make provisions relating to primary education and the basic necessity of human life, namely, minimum nutrition, justiciable.

New Delhi; The 13th March, 1967. MADHU LIMAYE.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

The smounts involved in the proposed measure would be large and, for obvious reasons, cannot be calculated with any precision at this stage. But it would be in the neighbourhood of a few billion rupees for enforcement of free, primary education.

BILL No. 12 of 1967

A Bill further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 1967.

Omission 2. Section 107 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 shall be 5 5 of 1898. 107.

Omission 3. Section 109 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 shall be 5 of 1898. of section omitted.

Sections 107 and 109 of the existing Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 have become an instrument of oppression in the hands of the local police. It is a disgrace that such repressive provisions should be allowed to remain on the statute book of a country which claims to be the leading democracy of Asia and the largest democracy in the world. In a country where unemployment is mounting and where the number of those unemployed has reached the staggering figure of 120 million, any one of these can be hauled up on the ground that he has no "ostensible" means of livelihood. Complaints are often being heard of innocent people being harassed by the local police officials and unsocial elements who are in league with them, under these sections. The omission of these two sections will come as a great boon to the common people and will enable them to have a feel of democracy and freedom.

New Delhi; The 13th March, 1967. MADHU LIMAYE.

BILL No. 11 OF 1967

A Bill to repeal the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Criminal Law Amendment (Repeal) Act, 1967.

Repeal of Act 23 of 1932, 2. The Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932 is hereby repealed.

The Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1932 was a special repressive measure devised by the British imperialist Government in 1932 to suppress the freedom movement. It was then denounced by all nationalist leaders as a "black law" and a measure inconsistent with the principles of democracy and freedom. It was expected that the Congress Government, with its anti-imperialist traditions, would take steps to repeal the Act or at least would allow it to remain on the statute book without making use of it in practice. Unfortunately, the Act has not only not been repealed but has often been used against the peoples' movement ever since the first Congress Ministry came into power in Madras and other States in 1937. Since the main provision of this Act puts an intolerable curb on civil liberty, it is necessary to remove it from the statute book.

BILL No. 9 of 1967

A Bill further to amend the Land Acquisition Act, 1894.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title, extent and commence.

ment.

- 1. (1) This Act may be called the Land Acquisition (Amendment) Act, 1967.
- (2) It extends to the whole of India except the State of Jammu 5 and Kashmir.
 - (3) It shall come into force at once.

1 of 1894.

Sec. 21

2. In section 11 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 (hereinafter referred to as the principal Act) for the words, figures and brackets, "at the date of the publication of the notification under section 4, subsection (1)", the words "at the date of the acquisition" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 11.

3. After section 15 of the principal Act, the following new section shall be inserted, namely:—

Insertion of new section 15A.

- "15A. Whenever bulk acquisition of land involves displacement of one hundred or more families, it shall be the responsibility of the requiring authority to provide for the rehabilitation of these displaced persons in a manner to be prescribed by Rules."
- 4. In sub-section (1) of section 23 of the principal Act, for the Amendwords, figures and brackets, "at the date of the publication of the notification under section 4, sub-section (1)" the words "at the date 23.

 15 of the acquisition" shall be substituted.

Section 23 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, enjoins that in determining the amount of compensation for land to be acquired under the Act, the Court shall take into account the market value of land on the date of publication of notification under section 4 of the Act. When the intervening period between the date of notification and the date of acquisition is long, the owner is entitled to a compensation which is wholly insufficient to buy an equivalent area of land with similar advantages. Our aim should be to pay a fair and reasonable price for land to be acquired, and to pay a price much below the market price is undoubtedly unfair and unreasonable. The Law Commission has also recommended that as far as possible everyone who is deprived of his property by compulsory acquisition should be awarded a compensation so as to place him in substantially the same position in which he was before the acquisition.

Hence the Bill.

New Delhi; The 13th March, 1967.

S. C. SAMANTA.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

The Bill will no doubt involve expenditure but an estimate of such expenditure cannot be given at present. The expenditure will depend on several factors such as the number and magnitude of Projects etc. which may, in future, have to be taken up for any public purpose. This factor alone cannot be determined now.

BILL No. 8 of 1967

A Bill to provide for compulsory training in rifle-shooting to all ablebodied citizens between the ages of twenty and thirty years.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

- 1. (1) This Act may be called the National Rifle Training Scheme Act, 1967.
 - (2) It extends to the whole of India.
- (3) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

25

2. This Act shall apply to all male citizens of the country, irres- Persons pective of their caste, creed, faith, employment or profession, within the age limits of twenty years and thirty years, and who are found to be physically and medically in good health:

applies.

- Provided that persons already enrolled in, or who have passed. the various courses prescribed under the National Cadet Corps or Territorial Army or Home Guards Scheme, shall be exempted from the operation of the provisions of this Act.
- 3. (1) The Central Government shall, by notification in the Compul-10 Official Gazette, frame a scheme to be called the National Rifle Train- sory Rifle ing Scheme for imparting compulsory training in rifle shooting to all those persons to whom this Act applies; and the Scheme shall be administered and implemented by that Government through such officers and authorities as it may deem fit and specify therein.

Training Scheme.

- (2) The Scheme may provide for— 15
 - (a) creation of a separate Directorate-General at the Centre under the over-all supervision of the Ministry of Defence to organise and administer the provisions of the Scheme;
 - (b) creation of the posts of Directors and other subordinate authorities at State and District levels for the implementation of the Scheme:
 - (c) creation of the posts of organisers and instructors at District and sub-division levels for imparting training in rifle shooting;
 - (d) the manner in which and the places at which the State, District and sub-division headquarters and camps and store houses under the Scheme shall be established and maintained;
 - (e) the manner of procurement and supply of the necessary rifles of the prescribed standard and ammunition for the Scheme;
- (f) fixation of the standard of rifles to be used for training 30 purposes;
 - (g) the manner in which and the places at which the training in rifle shooting shall be imparted;
- (h) the number of hours in a week for which a trainee shall undergo training; 35
 - (i) the determination of the period of training and the manner in which the courses shall be regulated;

15

- (j) the manner in which the physical fitness of the trainees shall be determined, and
- (k) the award of suitable certificates to trainees after successful completion of the training courses and tests.

Advisory Committees.

- 4. (1) The Central Government may, for the purpose of advising 5 it in all matters of policy connected with the framing and administering the Scheme, appoint a Central Advisory Committee consisting of the following persons, namely:—
 - (a) Minister of Defence, who shall be the Chairman of the Committee;
 - (b) Secretary to the Ministry of Defence, ex-officio member;
 - (c) Secretary to the Ministry of Home Affairs, ex-officio member;
 - (d) Chief of the Army Staff, ex-officio member;
 - (e) Director-General of Civil Defence, ex-officio member;
 - (f) Three members of Parliament to be nominated by the Central Government.
- (2) The Central Government may also appoint for the same purpose as specified in sub-section (1) such State and District Advi- 20 sory Committees as it may consider desirable from time to time and may prescribe their duties and functions.

Power to remove difficulties. 5. If any difficulty arises in giving effect to the provisions of this Act or of any Scheme framed thereunder, the Central Government may, by order, as occasion requires, do anything (not inconsistent 25 with this Act) that appears to fit to be necessary for removing the difficulty.

Penalty for noncompliance. 6. If a person, to whom this Act applies, fails to comply with the provisions of this Act or of the Scheme thereunder, shall be liable to punishment with imprisonment which may extend to three 30 months, or with fine.

Scheme to be laid before Parliament. 7. The Scheme framed under this Act shall be laid, as soon as may be after it is framed, before each House of Parliament while it is in session for a total period of thirty days, which may be comprised in one session or in two or more successive sessions, and if, before the expiry of that session in which it is so laid or the session or sessions immediately following, both Houses agree in making any modification in any provision of the Scheme or both Houses agree that any provision in the Scheme should not be made, the provision of the Scheme shall thereafter have effect only in such modified form or be of no effect, as the case may be, so however that any such modification or annulment shall be without prejudice to the validity of anything previously done under that provision.

The armed aggression by the Chinese in 1962 on our motherland has highlighted certain weaknesses in our defence preparedness. Since then vigorous efforts and ambitious projects in the field of production of defence equipment, creation of new divisions of mountain army and recruitment to our armed forces have done much to improve our military strength. Besides our defence forces, our second line of defence, i.e., the National Cadet Corps and Territorial Army have also made tremendous strides. With a view to strengthening and invigorating our second line of defence, it is necessary that every able-bodied male citizen of our country is taught the basic fundamentals of handling a firearm. This measure would ensure a regular and plentiful source of supply to our armed forces and the territorial armies. It is with this object in view that this Bill seeks to provide for compulsory training in rifle shooting to all those ablebodied citizens within the age limits of twenty and thirty years.

Hence this Bill.

New Delhi;

S. C. SAMANTA.

The 13th March, 1967.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

The Bill contemplates the appointment of various officers and authorities at Central, State and District levels and of Advisory Committees as well. It also provides for supply of necessary equipment for implementing the provisions of the Scheme. All these provisions involve an initial non-recurring expenditure as well as recurring expenditure in the shape of pay and allowances. It would be difficult, at this stage, to assess accurately the total financial requirement of the Scheme. It may, however, be approximately assessed as amounting to Rs. 50 lakhs initially.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 3 of the Bill seeks to empower the Central Government to frame a Scheme to carry out the purposes of this Act. The matters in respect of which the Government is required to prescribe the procedure have been specified in sub-clause (2) of clause 3. They relate to the manner in which authorities of the Scheme are to be appointed, the training is to be imparted, necessary material and equipment is to be supplied for the Scheme, etc. All these are matters of procedural nature. The delegation of legislative power is thus of a normal character.

Bill No. 14 of 1967

A Bill further to amend the Delhi Municipal Corporation Act, 1957.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

- 1. (1) This Act may be called the Delhi Municipal Corporation Short (Amendment) Act, 1967.
- (2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Gov-comernment may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

BILL No. 17 of 1967

A Bill to provide for the compulsory insurance of the Armed Forces Personnel.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows:-

1. (1) This Act may be called the Indian Armed Forces Personnel Short title (Compulsory Insurance) Act, 1967.

(2) It shall come into force at once.

and commencement.

Definition.

2. In this Act unless the context otherwise requires the Armed Forces personnel shall include Officers and other ranks including sepoys and soldiers commonly known as Jawans of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Compulsory insurance of armed forces personnel.

- 3. (1) The Central Government shall provide for compulsory 5 insurance of all the Armed Forces personnel, each for a sum of Rs. 10,000 or above.
- (2) The premium shall be paid by the Central Government from the date of appointment of a person in the Armed Forces till such date as he continues to be in service.
- (3) On the death of such person, irrespective of the fact whether his death occurs while in active service or otherwise, the proceeds of the insurance shall be paid to his nominees or heirs.

Payment of sum assured on retirement,

4. In the case of the retirement of the person from service, the proceeds of his insurance shall be payable to him.

As the Armed Forces personnel have to work under a great strain and also to risk their lives for the sake of the nation and for defending their country's sovereignty and integrity, it is desirable that their families and children may not have to suffer undue hardships on account of the death of the bread-earner. To obviate this difficulty and in fairness to the dependents of the Armed Forces personnel, it becomes obligatory on the part of the Government to provide compulsory insurance for the Armed Forces personnel.

NEW DELHI;

S. C. SAMANTA,

The 14th March, 1967.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

The Bill envisages provision for a compulsory insurance of the Armed Forces personnel. Clause 3 of the Bill provides for compulsory insurance for a sum of Rs. 10,000 minimum or above. This clause no doubt involves some expenditure. No exact idea is possible at this stage as to the amount of recurring and non-recurring expenditure that may be required. But to start with, a non-recurring grant of Rs. 2 crores is required.

BILL No. 18 of 1967

A Bill to provide for the prevention of hoarding of and profiteering in essential commodities in daily use.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Eighteenth Year of the Republic of India as follows: -

Cases of hoarding of and profiteering in food grains, medical supplies, cloth and several other commodities essential to the daily life of the people have become common, but there being no deterrent punishment under a specified Act for these offences, these cases have gone on increasing at the hands of anti-social elements. It is felt that a severely deterrent punishment should be prescribed for these offences. This Bill seeks to make provision accordingly.
